

Objective of the event:

To orient participants on innovative bore well recharge method in rural areas as well as various methods of aquifer recharge in urban areas.

Target Participants:

Staff from NGOs who want to integrate the aquifer recharge techniques in their on-going water conservation initiatives in Rural and Urban areas. Students, individual urban residents, institutions as well as representatives of RWAs may also participate and benefit from the event.

Contents of the training:

The training is practice-oriented and focuses on the following topics, that suits diverse rural and urban settings in areas of hard-rock geology:

- i) Potential of bore well recharge in rural and urban areas
- ii) 'Tanker test' and how to select potential bore wells for recharge
- iii) Nuances of construction methodology and maintenance of a bore recharge system
- iv) Urban rain water harvesting options and modern and affordable filters

Course Language is Telugu & English.

Resource Person:

R.V.Ramamohan M.E. (Water Res. Engg.)

Mr. Ramamohan has got about 20 years' experience in water conservation approaches, with nearly 10 years of practical insights on ground water recharge systems.

WLF is a non-profit organization committed to water and livelihoods security of poor. Contributions received from this event will be used to support poor farmers.

Orientation Training on Aquifer Recharge In Rural and Urban Areas

Venue

Surana Auditorium, FTCCI
11-6-841, FAPCCI Marg, Red hills
Hyderabad – 500004, Telangana.

Date & Time

16th December 2019 (10.00am to 4.00pm)

Course contribution:

Participants are expected contribute as per the following details:

On or before 05 Dec 2019: Rs. 1,500

06 Dec 2019 onwards: Rs. 2,200

Interested participants may send signed applications on plain paper with details:- Name, Communication Address, Mobile no., Course fee paid, Cheque no., along with the cheque to the WLF office address.

Individuals, NGOs & RWAs interested to share their experiences in rural & urban areas may send a short note (max. 300 words) with two photographs through e-mail on or before 30 Nov 2019. Selected entries will be invited to participate & share their experience (without course contribution).

Lunch, tea & snacks and course material (in English) will be provided to all participants.

Water and Livelihoods Foundation
(WLF)

12-13-451, Street no.1, Tarnaka
Secunderabad – 500017, Telangana, India
Web: www.wlfoundation.in, Ph: 040 27014467
e-mail: wlfoundation@outlook.com